CONSTIPATION IS USUAL
CAUSE OF HEMORRHOIDS

"Rectal troubles are decidedly more prevalent than most people imagine. The reason for this is very clear. It is not a matter that most persons care to discuss even among friends. However, it is of advantage for persons to know something of these conditions and their cause. The most common form is hemorrhoids," states Dr. Theodore B. Appel, Secretary of Health.

"Hemorrhoids are blood tumors or varicose veins occurring in the lowest part of the rectum. The inside lining of this organ is a delicate mucous membrane under which are numerous blood vessels. The changes in these vessels cause hemorrhoids.

"While there are other causes for hemorrhoids, by far the most common is constipation. Therefore, preventive measures against constipation is also usually a safeguard against hemorrhoids. The mere presence of this condition in whatever form demands a thorough examination. A rectal investigation may lead to an early diagnosis of even a more serious condition, and thus to effective treatment.

"Hemorrhoids are classified as to location, as internal and external. They are also classified according to their characteristic symptoms as bleeding, itching and thrombotic.

"Hemorrhoidal treatment may be medical or surgical. The former consists in the employment of astringent washes and ointments. Surgery is employed to remove the diseased tissue; it is reserved for those cases that do not yield to palliative measures. It should, however, be understood that the surgical removal of hemorrhoids does not eliminate the condition causing them. If constipation is the cause, it is essential that it be corrected. Otherwise a recurrence may result. Incidentally, the results of operative measures have proven highly satisfactory and they involve very little danger.

"Prevention in the majority of cases includes securing proper intestinal action and, as indicated, avoiding constipation. These objectives, in the average person, usually can be attained by the proper use of bulky foods, consumption of sufficient water, daily physical exercise and the development and maintenance of strict regularity.

"In short, if one does not have hemorrhoids, every reasonable effort should be employed to avoid them. On the other hand, if they unfortunately exist, seek your physician's advice, even though the manifestation may appear insignificant to you. To follow this counsel is an example of not only fine health insurance, but in some instances of life insurance as well. Decidedly it does not pay to temporize with this condition."

At the Block Party

By Milton W. Freeman

An evening at the Block Party. . . That's an idea! . . . Lights . . . Voices. . . Glamour. . . Enjoyment. . . Games. . . and the new Dodge car. . . The one that's to be given away. . . "Take a chance on the car, son. It's only a dime. You can't win it if you don't have a ticket." The Kiddie's Ride. . . Little tots having the time of their lives. . . Around the refreshment stand. . . Here's where you get your ice cream, sandwiches, and hot dogs. . .

"Take a chance on a bag of sugar. It's only a dime. Get your sugar here for a dime" . . . "Three balls for a dime. Knock over the bottles and get a pack of cigarettes. Win a cigar or a box of candy" . . . Men and boys, winding up, and throwing with all their strength. . . "Boy, oh boy, whatta curve" . . . "What? missed again?" . . . "C'mon, knock 'em over!" . . . The next stand. . . Win a blanket. . . And then a big crowd of children at the stand after that. . . Six miniature cars lined up. . . Take a chance on a car for a nickel. . . Each car is numbered and as a pair of dice are thrown, the cars bearing the numbers corresponding to the ones turned up on the dice are moved on a space. The first to cross the finish line wins a box of candy. . . Children's voices mingle with that of the caller. . . "Four and six" . . . "Six and one" . . . "Come on six" . . . "Betcha four wins" . . . "Three up two" . . . "Let's go three" . . .

There's the carousel (merry-go-round to you) . . . Above the shrill, throbbing music floats back the cails and laughter of the girls. . .

A few steps farther and our ears, released from the sounds issuing from the carousel, are attacked by blaring strains from the Ritz Theatre sound truck. . . The music (?) stops and a huge voice suddenly booms forth. . . "Step over to the truck and take a chance on a two-ton load of coal. Get your winter fuel supply now" . . . "Hey, hey, C'mon ovah and win a basketful of groceries" . . . Win a ham" . . . "Here you are folks. The famous, one and only ducking duck . . . Ring the duck's neck and win a pack of cigarettes. . . Three rings for a dime. . . Put all three on and I'll give you the duck" . . .

"Here's where you take home your Sunday dinner. Here's where you win a chicken. It's only a dime" . . . "Win a shirt for a dime. . . Win your haberdashery here. . . Take a chance on a hat" . . .

And the biggest attraction of the evening—the Bingo stand . . . A sing-song voice calling numbers . . . monotonous voices repeating. . . "Under the B—16" . . . "Under the I—31" . . . "Bingo! Hey, I got Bingo!" . . .

And then home . . . with a tired, but satisfied feeling.

What's Doing at the Theatres?

"Midnight Alibi"

Can you imagine an elderly and aristocratic New York spinster sheltering and shielding a young gangster who invades her home in order to escape being put on the spot by the brother of the girl he loves? That is the basis of the story of "Midnight Alibi," which will be seen at the Ritz Theatre on Friday and Saturday of this week. Richard Barthelmess plays the part of the gangster. Ann Dvorak has the principal feminine role.

Greater Movie Season Opens with Will Rogers in "Handy Andy"

What has every indication of being the greatest moving picture season ever witnessed in Indiana, opens at The Ritz Theatre with a midnight show, Sunday, September 2, with the appearance of Will Rogers in "Handy Andy." It will be shown Monday, Labor Day; Tuesday and Wednesday, Sept. 3, 4 and 5, and is the first of a group of stellar attractions to be offered to Ritz patrons during the month of September. Peggy Wood plays the leading feminine role in the production.

"Handy Andy" is a homely, clean and satisfying story of the kind that has made Rogers an attraction for millions. It has a keen comedy angle and rare entertainment in the experiences of the old-fashioned corner druggist who finally succumbs to his socially ambitious wife's harangues and sells the store. It is a show for both adults and kids.

"Treasure Island"

The second big feature picture of the new season is "Treasure Island," the famous classic of pirate life which has thrilled readers the world over. Wallace Beery plays the role of Long John Silver, the pirate, and Jackie Cooper has the role of Jim Hawkins, the boy adventurer and pal of Long John Silver. Billy Bones and Ben Gunn of the pirate crew are played by Lionell Barrymore and Charles "Chic" Sale. Other famous characters of the adventure tale are portrayed by a strong cast.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Jamison and children, Mary Ellen and J. Clair, of Girty; Mrs. Blanche Craig, of Parkwood; Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Coleman, of Vandergrift; Mr. and Mrs. Oliver M. Miller and daughter, Madge, of near Apollo; Mrs. Annie Scott, of Apollo.

REUNIONS AND PICNICS
CONTINUE POPULAR

Anthony Reunion

The Anthony reunion at Cook's Forest Park, August 18, united again one of the oldest pioneer families of Indiana county. Morning hours were spent in renewing acquaintances followed by a big family picnic dinner at noon.

An orchestra, including John Bollinger, Dorothy Gray, William Crebs, Jr., and George Mock, Jr., opened the program with several selections and furnished music for the group singing led by Miss Maud Grebs, of Youngstown, as well as an interpretive dance, in costume, by Miss La Ruth Johnson of Brockway. A reading by Mrs. Ada M. Crebs, of DuBois, preceded the address of the afternoon by Hon. Elder Peelor, of Indiana.

Mr. Peelor recalled close associations with the Anthony family in relating the experiences his ancestors shared in pioneer days of 1774, when the four families of Walker, Peelor, Anthony and Armstrong received their land patents from John and Thomas Penn and settled near Shelocta, Pa. They encountered many conflicts with the Indians, who were most hostile toward invaders at that time. One incident so interestingly told, concerned a Bible, 172 years old, which Mr. Peelor had with him and which had been handed down through the generations and finally to him from his grandfather. Emotion was aroused when the speaker referred to the rescue of this prized possession during an Indian raid July 13, 1736, when the pioneer village was attacked and all forced to flee, after which the Indians set fire to all the cabins. A severe rain storm quenched the fire somewhat, and when the settlers returned to claim what possessions they might find left, this old Bible was safe under the eaves of the roof in the partly burned cabin.

Particularly did Mr. Peelor mention the characteristics of these pioneering families, which included the Anthony's, in reflecting the development of that entire country in the strong moral, economic, political and religious type of civilization it established. And by the lofty virtues of these early settlers laid the foundations which have led to the better things of our present times. He also emphasized the Anthony spirit that predominated any time it became necessary to sustain the honor of the Red, White and Blue, particularly in the times of the American Revolution. Being a devout and religious people, the speaker reminded the reuners that their forefathers had left a heritage of social purity, political certainty and an economic base of the highest represented in American life, and which all would do well to perpetuate.

Relatives were present from far and near, and among those welcomed were Mr. and Mrs. Terah S. Furlough, of Colby, Kansas. The chairman extended greetings to which Mr. Furlough responded briefly but assuringly of his pleasure at being reunited with so many of his kinsfolks after a 32-year absence. Also among those from "afar" was Mrs. Alice Williams, aged 99, who had driven over 200 miles with Mr. and Mrs. George Anthony to attend the reunion.

Due to serious illness of the president, John G. Anthony, of Big Run, his son Milo acted as chairman for a short business meeting at which the following officers were elected: President, John G. Anthony, Big Run, Pa.; vice president, Dr. C. U. Anthony, DuBois.

Mrs. Matilda Pollock Jamison, who was 89 years old in July, and a great-grandchild, Naomi Ruth Harter, were the oldest and youngest persons present. A group picture of the four generations, Mrs. Jamison, her oldest daughter, Mary (Mrs. F. M. Harter), her son, big Jim and his youngest child, was taken. One son, H. T. Jamison, three daughters, 21 grandchildren and 18 great-grandchildren and a few friends helped to enjoy the occasion. Clyde Bhe, with his violin and Robert Stables, with his banjo, and Mrs. Lottie Bhe, with her singing, helped to keep every one happy. Among those present from a distance were Mrs. Anna Leach, of Elizabethtown; Mr. and Mrs. John Leech and Mrs. Harris Little, of McKeesport; Mrs. F. M. Harter, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. The oldest relative present was Mrs. Sara Lydic, who has reached the age of 90 years. Next was Mrs. Charlotte Jamison, 71 years. Officers for the next year were elected as follows: President, Clark Jamison; vice president, A. M. Lukehart; secretary, Foster J. Parks; treasurer, Olive Jamison. The third Saturday in August, 1935, was named as the date of the next reunion.

Forty-five of the descendants of James and Mary Lukehart Campbell attended the ninth annual reunion of the Atwood school on August 18. Fifty persons enjoyed the excellent dinner served at noon and all had a pleasant day. A brief memorial was held for Mrs. Charles Campbell, the only descendant who has passed away since the previous reunion. The next reunion will be held at the schoolhouse on the third Saturday of August, 1935.

Four hundred persons attended the Trimble-Blose school reunion. Greetings were extended by H. A. Rairigh and Rever Blose. Addresses were made by W. M. Blose and County Supt. Jas. F. Chapman. Cherry Tree Junior orchestra furnished the music. The following officers were elected: President, Elmer Roostich; vice president, Foster Blose; secretary and treasurer, Zonnie Fetterman. The next reunion will be held on the third Thursday of August, 1935.

Nearly 200 persons attended the Bennett-Lear reunion held at Round Top, on the Wm. Penn Highway on Saturday. It was decided to hold the next reunion at Campbell Mills. The Finished Hunting Dog

Colin M. Reed, an expert dog breeder of Washington, Pa., in an excellent article on hunting dogs in the Pennsylvania Game News says "The finished hunting dog is the product of two very definite influences: heredity and environment. Heredity, of course, is entirely a matter of breeding; environment, a matter of care and training."
