One possibily as in this E-mail:

I finally got the word on the three Fleming families found in and around Indiana Co, and wanted to let you know.

1. Boaz Fleming. Boaz came to America approximately 1760. His descendants migrated across Pennsylvania and finally settling in what is now Conemaugh, Young, and Armstrong Twp, Indiana Co. There are descendants living in those areas today as well as the Plumcreek Twp Armstrong Co, area.

In that BOAZ was a popular given name at the time certainty is impossible to claim.

Notes for Peter Fleming:

Peter Fleming emigrated about 1680 and took up land under William Penn in Kent Co., Del., known as Mispillon Hundred, a tract of land which embraced three miles square. He was a Presbyterian and were among dissenters from the Church of England and sought freedom of thought and worship here in America. This tradition cannot be substantiated by the records. Numerous Flemings came to this country from Scotland, Ireland, and England in early days. The names of scores of them may be found in the annals of the different colonies prior to the Revolution. For example, J. Montgomery Seaver, in his Fleming Family Records." names 95 Flemings who served in the Revolution from eleven of the colonies. The census records for 1790 list 19 from Maryland, 21 from VA & 59 from PA, and smaller numbers from other states.
